Letter From The President

Hello Friends,

I'll bet most of you are in the same position that I am, especially if you own your own property ~ squishing around with grass and all vegetation leaping out of the ground like it's on steroids! My horses are loving it ~ my old fella a little too much, so he sadly has to come in after a few hours. Riding is temporarily a little challenging, no riding for me for 5 days after a fun show last weekend because of the rain. No complaints, though ~ I'm happy to see my pond filling up again after being so low.

Speaking of the show, what a rousing success! Last count I saw was 92 competitors, 260 rides, full with a waiting list, and really, one of the happiest atmospheres I've ever seen. I'm sure starting Friday night with the infamous Stall Crawl helped set the tone, but it was something beyond that. There were so many smiles, and so many times one competitor coming out of the arena would say to the one going in, "have a great test!" For the most part I heard people praising their horses back in the barn, excusing a less than ideal performance with a compassionate understanding of their equine partner. That was a joy to me ~ people loving the ride and forgiving any errors, or taking responsibility for a mistake. "If I'd ridden that movement better....." that's really what this should be about, that loving and respectful partnership with these amazing animals. Check out Roberta's show report later in the newsletter.

And more good news, the USDF "L" Session is fast approaching and at last report we had about 50 people sign up, either as participants or auditors. It is so exciting to anticipate this event! What a great time this will be, and I hope you ALL have signed up! Of note: ODS is looking for host homes to help with lodging program participants during a busy commercial hospitality season in Tulsa. Please see page 2 for details on how you can help.

Well there are about two more hours of daylight as I'm writing this, so I better get back to the yard ~ let's see.....mowing or planting.....??

Take time for a great ride!

~ Kay

Host House Call-Out for USDF "L" Judges Program

As we all are aware, ODS is hosting the first of three sessions of the USDF "L" Judges Program on

May 21-22. When planning dates that would work with "L" Faculty, we never dreamed that the very same weekend was the PGA Golf Tournament in Tulsa! It seems they have a somewhat bigger draw than Dressage, and as we set about to find a block of hotel rooms for our out of town attendees, we were dismayed to find many of the hotels either completely booked, or unwilling to reserve rooms for us. While we did give warning, and visitors are finding rooms or Air bnbs, we thought a nice idea would be to collect a list of generous ODS members who would be willing to offer a room for our visitors.

If you are willing to take an overnight guest at your home, please contact Sherry Guess, our "L" Program Director, and she will make that list available to our visitors!

Thank you all in advance!!!

Thank You To Our Awesome ODS Show Volunteers!

Their generous donation of time and skills may our May show possible. By the way, it takes more than 30 people to cover this weekend, many working two or even three days.

Arena set-up occurs on Friday. Diane Beckert, Patty and Larry Couch, Sherry Guess, Kay Kamish, Marta Koenig and granddaughter (we're starting them young) Ramona Winters, Veronica Moody and Nancy Trait-Lira were all on hand to set up the arena. Judges tables were set up, banners hung (a very pregnant Marilyn Coffey carefully helped with this!), office supplies arranged and competitors began to arrive at their designated stalls. Judges were picked up from the airport and ferried to their hotel.

Pam Hogg and Veronica Moody scribed for the judges both days, with Pam picking them up each morning and Veronica returning them to the airport at the end of the show.

Scoring each ride Saturday were Susan Mohler, Marta Koenig and Mel Hollifield. Sunday scorers were Katrina Geren, Jeanie Korver, Pamela Byers and Mel Hollifield.

We have two warm-up arenas and Robin Grain and husband David Walkup manned the Mustang arena all day Saturday and Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon Pamela Byers and Shirley Vincent took over there.

The entry gate and bit checking were handled by a revolving team of volunteers. Deb Girlinghouse -Newman and Linda Whitley were new to our volunteer efforts and worked all day, both days. Mel Hollifield, Marta Koenig and Nancy Trait-Lira also filled in.

Cathy Orban and Pamela Rhodes provided the Breed Awards for competitors that are given out during the Awards Ceremony. The Silent Auction was handled by Diane Beckert and Nancy Trait-Lira, with Kay Kamish helping out after she presented ribbons at the Awards Ceremony. This is an enormous job with more than 100 items and brought in more than $2,400. The proceeds go toward ODS educational events.

Donna Copeland and Teresa Wilkerson handled the Awards desk, making sure everyone got the right tests, ribbons and prizes.

Ramona Winters was our runner, with Mel Hollifield filling in Sunday morning.

Don't forget that arrangements for this show begins months before. Roberta Clark, aided by Amanda Edwards, finds sponsors that financially help support our show at this wonderful but expensive facility. Roberta attends to countless details such as the program, stall cards, arrangements with the facility, getting flowers to decorate judges tables, food selections, ribbons and endless other activities that make this show flow so smoothly.

Arena pick-up and closing of the office was accomplished in about an hour by everyone who had already been working all day! Obviously we were all anxious to be done and on our way.

Many thanks to all!!!

Sherry Guess

ODS Scholarship Awardee Shares April Learning Experience

By Gwyneth Baggett

The first weekend of April, I had the honor of serving as a demo rider at the PSG level for both days of the Lilo Fore Symposium, sponsored by ODS. This was the third time I have had the privilege of riding in an ODS symposium in my junior career. I feel like I've grown up in the dressage ring with all of you watching me progress through the levels, from learning my first half-pass with Ann Gribbons, to learning about impulsion from Christine Taurig, and now finally learning about uphill carriage from Lilo Fore.

I came to the Lilo Fore Symposium with the goal of improving straightness in my mare Renzi, who tends to curl her hind end in on the right side. This is especially problematic in the flying changes, making it almost impossible to get clean changes. As with most training issues, I knew the problem was likely ME. I have a tendency to be very strong on my right hand and my coach is constantly telling me to soften the right rein. Lilo reminded us all (at my expense) of the famous quote by Charlotte Dujardin that "short reins win gold medals" and rather than asking me to soften on the right, asked me to shorten on the left so that my hands were more evenly next to each other. Of course one must then remember that your thumbs go up and to maintain a sense of pushing your hands forward while maintaining contact.

Next came impulsion. I thought I learned about this concept when Christine Taurig chased us around the arena with my whip, but Lilo pushed our impulsion to new levels.

Finally, Lilo insisted on Renzi having self-carriage in an uphill frame. This was a big focus not just with me, but with several of the riders over the course of the weekend. "Uphill....uphill....uphill.....MORE uphill" was Lilo's refrain on day 1. When I finally put all three things together—my hands were correct, Renzi had enough impulsion, and Renzi was uphill—then voila! We had straightness.

I often hear from both my coach and in judges' comments that Renzi needs to "sit" more, especially in the canter. Lilo's focus on keeping Renzi uphill was a revelation for us. I realized that when you focus only on the "sit," it creates a backwards frame of mind. This has translated into lack of impulsion in Renzi's collected canter work. Focusing instead on creating a more uphill frame changes the conversation and becomes more forward thinking. The result in the horse's frame is the same, the difference is mental for the rider and translates into more impulsion for the horse.

As with my previous symposium rides, the biggest take away for me was confidence in raising my expectations of both Renzi and myself. It's easy to slide into a rut of acceptance of shortcomings, our horses and our own. But Lilo reminded me not to take those for granted. Instead, "get what you want." I have to maintain my own body tension and be assertive about how my horse holds her body. "Riding dressage is not for wimps," she said. I have to use my body too. I have to "RIDE HER," as Lilo insisted. I knew I would come away with higher expectations, but I was surprised by just how high Lilo set the bar! She gave me confidence in what I should expect. It felt great when Lilo praised our efforts and declared "now you're riding an FEI horse!"

I am very grateful to ODS for awarding me a scholarship to help defray the costs associated with riding in the Symposium. I learned a lot and can't wait to see the long term impact on my partnership with Renzi.

"L" Program Update

Sherry Guess, the ODS program coordinator, reports that, at press time, there are 16 Participants (Judge Candidates) coming from Oklahoma as well as Kansas, Texas, Arkansas, Nebraska and Iowa! It was anticipated that this program would be popular - how exciting to see how true this is.

If you have any thoughts to learning more about judging, whether you intend to go on through the whole program or not, please sign up. If you are hesitant because you do not yet have the scores required to go on to test for your "L," remember that you have two years to acquire those scores; they do not have to be in place as you go through Part 1.

There will be room for Auditors, so be sure to sign up — the earlier the better, as it will help Sherry with the necessary planning.

GCDC Show Update: Postponed to June 2023

The difficult decision was made by the GCC Board to cancel this year's GCDC Show on March 12, 13. Even with a strong phone campaign to encourage entries, there just were not enough to make the show financially feasible. The rough February weather seemed a big deterrent, with many riders and trainers feeling they just did not have their horses up to show condition. GCC did not have the financial depth to take a loss on the show, and there was concern about how the cancellation penalties would affect them. Through the good grace of the two judges, Charlotte Trentleman and Judy Downer, neither are charging a penalty fee, nor are the TD or announcer, so that helps GCC save quite a bit of money. After a discussion with the ODS Show committee (Roberta Clark, Sherry Guess, Anne Kuhns) and Kara Garde, GCC President, the ODS Board voted to take on responsibility for GCDC in 2023, and return to a June date at the Claremore Expo! So this fine show, with an over 20-year history, will be back! Tentative date: June 10 - 11, 2023
